A WEDDING FEAST AT STEEP HOLLOW.

When the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richey and Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones was announced plans were at once devised by which the newlyweds should be duly honored and their materialization was in the form of an elegantly appointed dinner given them on last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jones, in which the following guests participated: W. R. Parker and wife, Tom Peyton and sister, Miss Lee of Benchley; Mr. Conway and little daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, Mrs. J. W. Mathis, Mrs. F. A. Godsoe and little Marta and Frank Godsoe, Jr., all of this community.

The dinner, which under the supervision of the hostess and Miss Peyton, proved to be perfect in every detail, was served promptly at 12 o'clock. The following menu was served:

Fish Salad
Barbecued Pig Tomato Catsup
Light Muffins
Dressed Turkey Cranberry Jelly
Hot Rolls Cream Potatoes
Barbecued Kid Pinkies
Jeff Davis Pie
Angel Charlotte Russe
Cocoanut Cake Apple Snow Custard

Coffee Chocolate Cake Potato Pie

During the meal attention was called to the fact that the last three of three families were married—Olsen, Jones and Richey—and the fact that the eight parents were living was pointed out by Mrs. Olsen as being rather significant. Mr. Jones promised to give another such treat again 25 years hence, but to the surprise of all the guests when they returned from a pleasant hickory nut hunt in the late afternoon they found the long table filled again, and after the four or five-mile walk through the woods, the crowd was fully able to appreciate the supper as well as the dinner. When the guests repaired to their respective homes they were each surprised again by a box of barbecue from the hostess. Many expressions of an enjoyable time were heard, each thanking Mr. and Mrs. Jones for the pleasant day.

The price, according to this source of information, now ranges from $1.05 to $1.15 per bushel. The Commercial Association is not conducting a marketing association, but will be glad to assist any farmer who has peanuts in locating the best market.

A Passing at Twilight.
What was it that passed in the twilight—
What was it went singing by?
Dusk wakens so many a dream,
And each dream its cry.

I will go home to the evening star—
To a light that is set at the edge of the world,
As another goes home to the cottage lamp
By the forest side when the day is done.

I will go home to the evening star.
I am only awaiting the twilight wind;
Then will open softly the silver door;
And the lifting wind will bear me in.

I will go home to the evening star.
There are the tables with delicate food;
There are the couches spread over with dreams,
And the chambers are scented with sweeter than rose.

I will go home to the evening star,
There will be faces divine—as of gods;
There will be music—gone voices returned;
And there will be laughter, and wonder—and tears!

I will go home to the evening star.
To the light that is set at the edge of the world.
Only now do I see that, long ago lost,
I have always been only retracing my steps.

Dusk wakens so many a dream,
And each dream its ancient cry—
What was it that passed in the twilight,
Fading on high!
—Edith M. Thomas, in N. Y. Times.

Hawkins—"Baxter's son didn't succeed as a surgeon." Robbins—"What was the trouble?" Hawkins—"Too absent-minded. He operated on one patient for something that another fellow had."—Judge.
